Invites Applications for
3 months Certificate Course through online in

'Principles and Practice of Social Work in Mental Health Rehabilitation Settings'

About the Course:

There is a dearth of trained social work professionals in the mental health rehabilitation settings for persons with mental illness in India. One of the primary roles of social workers in these centres is to provide and facilitate welfare benefits to the disabled. However, the knowledge and utilizations of these welfare schemes are limited among those working in Mental Health rehabilitation settings. As an Institute of National Importance and a pioneer in Psychiatric Social Work, NIMHANS can help build capacity by training human resources in developing and managing mental health rehabilitation settings. This will increase the possibility of more social work professionals setting up mental health rehabilitation settings which in turn can help reduce the mental health treatment gap and provide comprehensive and qualitative care to persons with mental health disabilities.

This will be an online certificate course designed to equip social workers to be efficient and confident in the setting up and managing mental health rehabilitation settings. The course is designed to enhance practical knowledge for graduates and postgraduates in social work, working in Non-Profit organizations as these settings play a crucial role in providing services, especially welfare measures to persons with developmental and mental disabilities across the states in India. This section of social workers' capacity-building efforts in mental health rehabilitation settings has remained limited to organizing workshops and training programmes. However, given the size of the sector, there is a need for a short-term course with a standard curriculum on the development and management of mental health rehabilitation settings. The course's larger vision is to improve social work practice quality in mental health rehabilitation settings. Additionally, the course will provide a base for Rehabilitation and community based psychosocial interventions in preventive and promotive aspects.

In this context, a three-month certificate Course is proposed in 'Social Work Practice in Mental Health Rehabilitation Settings' for students/ practitioners who have completed their Bachelors/ master's in social work and/or practitioners working in Mental Health rehabilitation settings.

Aim and Objectives of this Online Course:

1. To understand the process of setting up mental health rehabilitation settings - writing project proposals for funding and process of registration of non-profit organizations.

4. To give an overview of the various psychosocial rehabilitation services that can be provided in the mental health rehabilitation settings.
